

Think Nutrition During the Hurricane Season

Buy early and stock up. Gathering hurricane supplies should be a family affair with input from each member. Everyone has different wants, needs and tastes, so all these need consideration during planning.

Set aside some time to design daily menus covering one or two weeks, and the amount of groceries needed for your plan. Think of how it will most likely be hot weather with no electricity, so food choices should require no refrigeration. Plan at least 1 gallon of water per person daily for drinking, and additional water for cooking. Fill a clean and sanitized tub with water for other uses.

Try putting food supplies in large brown grocery bags, staple them shut, label as hurricane supplies and put in large waterproof plastic bags. You could also use a large waterproof container with a lid. Store in your pantry so food supplies will be ready when needed. Avoid using your hurricane supplies before the storm, but use them up after the season is over or donate to a food pantry to avoid the food expiring.

The following sections will help you plan your daily 3-meal menus, and also include healthy snacks throughout the day. Just as important are the supplies that go along with your food preparation, remembering that you are trying to cover both the safety and cleanliness of preparing meals during this disaster time frame. Some people also need to think of elderly neighbors who probably couldn't fend for themselves or eat properly during this time, so perhaps include them in your planning process.
